A Newspaper As Old As The City Itself

WHAT'S GOING ON?

Tuesday is the Special Consolidated Statewide election day with races in Shasta Lake for City Council, Shasta Lake Fire Protection District director, and County Board of Education Member Trustee Area 2. Brief profiles on the candidates for those races are on this page and page 5. In addition, there are eight propositions on the ballot. Polls open at 7 a.m. and close at 8 p.m. For more information, call the County Clerk's office at 225-5730 or toll free at 1-888-560-8683.

Public safety meeting and spaghetti dinner on tap Saturday

A special town hall public safety meeting and spaghetti dinner is scheduled Saturday at the Shasta Lake Fire Protection District. See story this page.

Scoping meeting slated

A scoping meeting for a proposed 600-acre project in the north part of the city is scheduled Nov. 9 at 4 p.m. at the John Beaudet Senior Community Center. See story this page.

Dessert with the Sheriff tonight

The public is invited to come have dessert with Sheriff Jim Pope today from 6 to 8 p.m. at the John Beaudet Senior Community Center, 1525 Median Ave. Sheriff Pope is visiting many communities before his retirement the end of this year.

Veterans parade grand marshal was Navy Chaplain

Capt. Lester L. Westling, Jr. is this year's grand marshal for the Shasta Lake Lions club's 13th annual Veterans Parade, scheduled Saturday at 11 a.m. on Shasta Dam Boulevard.

This year's theme is "Honoring the Purple Heart's."

In 1966, in the middle of Westling's Vocation as an Episcopal Priest ministering in parishes in the San Francisco Bay Area, he went from the Coast Guard Reserve on Treasure Island to volunteering for service in Vietnam as a Navy Chaplain. He was commissioned at the U.S. Embassy in Manila, Philippines where he served seven years as a missionary.

Westling served two combat tours of duty, first with the Marine

Infantry on the DMZ, then on three week circuits of 65 combat units with the Riberine Forces in the Mekong Delta with small river patrol boats, Army advisory team, Army Special Forces, Army Green Berets and Chinese mercenaries.

Westling remained in the Navy for a career because of the young people he met in combat and in the fleet, he said.

Scoping meeting Nov. 9 on 'biggest project ever in S.L.'

By JON LEWIS

Shasta Lake residents and others will get their first chance to ask questions and learn more about the massive 600-acre mixed-use development planned for the former Peri Property at a public meeting set for 4 p.m. on Nov. 9 at the John Beaudet Senior Community Center, 1525

Median Ave.

The meeting is being held to identify potential impacts – including traffic, noise and congestion – that should be included in an environmental impact report being prepared for the proposed Mountain Gate at Shasta development.

Public safety meeting being held to improve communications

By BUDDY FAIRBANKS

As a way to better serve the community and to find out just what is on everybody's mind, Shasta County Sheriff's Capt. Denis Carroll is holding a public safety town hall meeting and spaghetti dinner on Saturday at the Shasta Lake Fire Protection District fire hall, 4126 Ashby Court, from 4 to 7 p.m.

As an enticement to get people to attend, a free spaghetti dinner is being offered.

The purpose of the event, Carroll said, is to allow citizens of the community to meet some of the local law enforcement, emergency personnel, and other officials and find out what is going on in the community and give some input.

"I think it's important to have

5 candidates seek 2 seats on city council

Five candidates are seeking two seats on the Shasta Lake City Council in Tuesday's election.

Nadine Bailey, Jim Mark and Gracious Palmer are challenging appointed incumbents Debra Duryee and Bonnie Hurlhey. Below are brief biographies and some of the main issues of concern for each of the candidates.

By JON LEWIS

Nadine Bailey, 48, is the senior field representative for state Sen. Sam Aanstad, R-Grass Valley. She has resided in Shasta Lake for almost two years.

Nadine Bailey

Her experience includes a six-year stint of running trade associations in Wisconsin and Michigan. Prior to that, she was a grass-roots lobbyist for Trinity County logging interests.

Bailey listed the protection of private property rights as her top concern, an issue she said is particularly important for smaller communities like Shasta Lake.

"What might look like an old shack to somebody from the Bay Area is a home somebody worked very hard for, and the rights of property owners need to be respected," Bailey said.

Bailey said she's concerned by a recent U.S. Supreme Court decision giving local governments greater eminent domain powers, fearing "a movement to make it look more like Redding" that will lead to property seizures.

At a recent candidates forum, Bailey said she overheard somebody say how they moved to the city for its small-town feel and wanted it to remain the same.

"And I do, too. That's one of the reasons I moved here. You can go into a store and actually know people," Bailey said.

Bailey said she wants to preserve Shasta Lake's small-town character and is motivated to serve on the city council because she enjoys working in government at the local level and she wants to ensure there is a safe and healthy community for her 3-year-old grandson.

Debra Duryee, 50, operates an online store and handles promotions for American Pastimes, a hot rod shop in Carmichael. She is a city of Shasta Lake native and was appointed to the council in 2004 to complete Rod Lindsay's term.

Debra Duryee

She also served on the city council from 1993 to 1997 and again from 1999 to 2003. She served two terms as mayor.

Duryee said her top priority is for the city to stay on top of the planning and managing for its growth. The city is completing master plans for sewer, water and parks, "and those need to be finished and put into practice," she said. Additionally, there's a $5 million water line replacement project and a hazard-elimination plan for Shasta Dam Boulevard that need to be implemented.

"There's so much to take care of right this minute," Duryee said, adding that she wants to see the city act on the Community Action Plan that was drafted in 1994 with input from more than 300 residents.

Duryee said she draws motivation from a Winston Churchill quote: "The farther back you can look, the farther forward you are likely to see."

"That really spoke to me," she said. "We have something unique here, a chance to make something. We're one of the last boom towns left in the United States. That's our heritage and we shouldn't try and change this."

Bonnie Hurlhey, 59, is retired from the travel industry and currently works part-time at the Mountain Gate RV Park. She has been a Shasta Lake resident for more than four years.

Bonnie Hurlhey

Hurlhey lists public safety as one of her top concerns and said she'd like to see Neighborhood Watch programs established for each neighborhood in the city.

She said she wants to work with the Shasta County Sheriff's Department toward that goal, in part to keep residents better informed about what she sees as a growing gang problem.

Hurlhey also would like to see the city adopt, and enforce, a hillside ordinance.

"We just can't let developers do what they've been doing," she said. "I don't agree with two of the candidates who say we're not developer-friendly. I say we're too friendly. People talk like we have all this land and we don't. We have to take care of what we have now."

Hurlhey emphasized that she is not opposed to development, she just wants to ensure it's "done in a correct way."

"Otherwise kids growing up will have nothing but one shopping mall leading to the next shopping mall," she said. "I sure as heck don't want to live like that."

Hurlhey also would like to see the community become more involved.

"It's not just the council's community, but everybody who lives here. I'd like to get rid of that idea that 'if it's not happening in my back yard, I'm not interested.'"

Jim Mark, 59, is the Web master, editor and publisher of The Shasta Laker, an Internet site that focuses on community events. The Web site is located at www.theshastalaker.com. He has resided in Shasta Lake for 16 years.

Jim Mark

Mark said his top priority is bolstering city staff so it is better prepared to process proposed developments that promise to add as many as 2,300 homes to the city limits.

"We need to get fully staffed and up to speed," he said. "We're so thin now, average citizen complaints are not getting responded to in a timely manner."

Mark said he's heard "horrible stories" of construction delays – brought on by staffing shortages – costing developers large amounts of money.

Mark said he wants to see a hillside ordinance "that deals fairly with developers."

"Right now, the ordinance is being drafted to reflect the Planning Commission's very stilted opinion that developers should knuckle under to their every whim," he said.

If the ordinance, which is now in its fourth draft, is enacted as written, Mark said he has heard from property owners and developers who say they will petition to be annexed to the city of Redding.

"I don't think the city should consider this an idle threat," he said.

Gracious

Palmer, 65, is an educator who has been certified to substitute teach in all Shasta County schools. She also owns and operates Palmer Enterprises in Shasta Lake. She has been a resident for 16 years.

Gracious Palmer

The hillside ordinance is a top issue for Palmer, who worked on the proposed regulation during her two-year term on the Shasta Lake Planning Commission.

"I think it's vital to the quality of our life here, and our economic development, to have the hillside ordinance passed as soon as possible," she said. "I do not ever want to see the devastation that's occurring at Windsor Estates and Deer Creek Manor."

Palmer said she supports development, but not at the expense of the community's quality of life.

"We are a gem," she said. "We have an opportunity we should not forego in lieu of development. We have an opportunity to be a model for the north state."

Palmer also lists public safety as one her priorities, noting she is a member of the citizens' patrol. She said the city needs to increase impact fees on new development to generate the money needed to improve the city's roads.

She said the city needs to attract environmentally friendly businesses that provide living-wage jobs, "jobs where a single wage earner can support his or her family, so we can continue to have intact families."

Making choices

By GENNIE SEELY

I can't tell other people how they should choose candidates. I can only tell you what governs my decisions, with the caveat, times and conditions can change and mistakes can be made, albeit with the best of intentions, that time bears out. We should learn from our mistakes.

Moral commitments should be more stable, however. The gut level feeling has bearing as well as the personal one of how a particular individual treats me or others as human beings.

I have participated in politics as a matter of necessity throughout my life. I firmly believe that if a person does not take part in decisions that affect him, someone will do it for him, and not always in his best interest.

This goes for even "Indian politics," which takes absolute resolve and a thick skin, since the arrows can come from all sides at any given time. Unfortunately it is often a "relative" situation.

The downfall of most Indian organizations can be directly tied to nepotism, the habit of making things a "family affair" whether or not its members have the necessary credentials or expertise to do a good job for the people.

American politics may not be just a family affair, but it is often a "party" affair. The problem with that is that we are not always invited to the party, except when someone wants to be elected to "represent" us. Sometimes the party leaves us by changing its purpose or direction, and we find ourselves abandoned. We flounder around trying to find a purpose, but finally have to revert back to our core values, if we have any.

I also have learned that speaking one's mind does not always make one the most popular individual. But then, a person must be true first to himself before he can even hope to deal with other people. Wishy-washy sooner or later succumbs to a flaccid spine.

There seems to be a repugnance to cloning human beings, but not so to clone thinking. There are certain concepts that are continually crammed down our throats that are purportedly for the "good of the people" even when they have proven to be anything but.

Disagree and you run the risk of being reviled, labeled racist, un-American, or pro- or anti-whatever. Even when "the people" speak, their opinions are often ignored, patronized or overturned by "a higher power." So just what is a body to do?

Speak up. Ask questions. But above all, watch to see if the person walks the talk. If someone says they will do something, hold them to it.

Observe how they relate to other people, not just those in their inner circle. All too often, when some people are elected to office, they suddenly feel they are elevated above those who elected them. They neglect to rub elbows and communicate with the constituents. Worse, some actually avoid the masses, either because they don't consider them important enough or feel threatened by them. Whatever the case, the electorate is abandoned again.

Vote your conscience. It might be wise to keep it to yourself, unless you are strong enough to take the flack from those who voted differently.

We do not have to agree on all issues. Just because people have differences of opinions does not mean they are enemies. Enemies are those who refuse to let others think for themselves, try to control or manipulate them through lies or power plays, or try to punish them for maintaining their legal or spiritual value systems.

I believe I have mentioned before how much I enjoyed debating in high school. It forced me to think more rationally, not just emotionally. Perhaps the best thing was that we often didn't get to choose how we would debate an issue, pro or con. If we had to defend an issue we disagreed with, it certainly forced us to consider the other side of the issue.

Too bad we can't handle international politics this way. The world seems to have divided itself too much into the concepts: "if you aren't with me, you are against me", or worse, "my friend is my enemy's enemy."

To make the situation more serious, we are no

JIM MARK
City Council
City of Shasta Lake

On November 8th, you will have the opportunity to elect someone to represent your views on the City of Shasta Lake City Council. I'm asking for your support in shaping the future of our community.

During my 16 years living and working in the Shasta Lake area I have been involved in many positions of service, including serving on the Planning Commission, active member of the Shasta Lake Chamber of Commerce, and active member of the Shasta Damboree Service Group. I study the issues and believe in open lines of communication to improve government efficiency. I am committed and dedicated to work full time as your City Councilman. The time is "NOW" to recognize the importance of managed growth. I understand the importance of working together with law enforcement and fire protection agencies, the Gateway Unified School District, and our local business community to help guide the future of the City of Shasta Lake. Together we can share the pride of the City of Shasta Lake and maintain our vision for a better community for our families and future generations to enjoy.

longer dealing with just words. In some places in the world, disagreeing can mean death, not for just an individual but for the entire family.

Thank God, we can still freely vote in this country. Too bad so few of us take the opportunity.

Aside from politics, I am noticing other things going on in the community. It looks like the old "antique" shop west of the underpass is finally coming down. Well, at least the back end is down.

The building across from the Fishen Hole has a new coat of paint. Windows are repaired and the parking area is paved. It would be nice to see it occupied before the vandals mess it up again.

The crown jewel of Shasta Dam Boulevard has got to be the old Cathey's Variety building. What a great design.

The Big Dipper is sporting new paint and a new sign, acknowledging it as Shasta Lake's original diner.

I attended Central Valley High School's Dinner Theater, Strange Boarders, last Friday. Although it started a bit late, it was worth the wait. The food was delicious and the play was funny and well executed.

I wasn't so sure the set would withstand the exuberance of the cast at times, what with all the hiding of unconscious or dead bodies. As a matter of fact, one cast member was moved so much, he became a prop, although his acting was great before he was "offed."

With so much effort going into putting on such a program, it was unfortunate that there were so many empty seats. The entire community should support the efforts of the drama department and the school in such efforts. It's not just the athletic team that has a winning record. The drama department has done itself proud for nine years.

It would be nice if some of the civic organizations and city staff would attend once in awhile. Maybe people would see how desperately the school needs a good stage to further enhance the efforts of the students, emoting their hearts out.

SHERIFF'S LOG

- Continued from page 2

The area was checked, but the vehicles were gone.

Several callers reported a woman in a white Ford Escort parked near the Shasta Lake School acting very strangely Oct. 24. Callers reported she was talking to herself and screaming at passers by.

A male caller on Walker Mine Road reported a man attempted to kidnap a juvenile there Oct. 24 at 1:25 p.m. The caller said the man offered the juvenile candy and then pulled out a knife and tried to grab him. He said the juvenile hit the man with a rock and ran away. Ricky Dean Foster was later arrested for alleged violation of probation, driving on a suspended license, failure to work on a work-release program and on outstanding warrants. He was arrested behind the Country Market on Lake Boulevard at Walker Mine Road at 2:20 p.m.

Al Wagner, a contractor working at Central Valley High School, called Oct. 24 at 6:37 p.m. to report his tool storage there was broken into over the weekend.

I have been a member of this wonderful community for 5 years. In that time I have been on the:

- Chamber of Commerce
- Damboree Committee
- Shasta Lake Senior Committee
- Shasta Lake Heritage & Historical Society
- Headed the Doors of Transformation
- Headed the City Wide Yard Sale

I am also proud to say I have not accepted any money from anyone - not developers, unions or the like that might have an interest in our City. Please help me in saving our hillsides and our landscapes that make us so beautiful. Being born and raised in the bay area, I know first hand what can happen to natural landscapes. Let's not have that happen here. Thank you to all the businesses and all my friends for supporting me - you are forever in my heart.

I'm Tired of Politics...

- I'm tired of the rumor mongering, gossip and lies that attempt to discredit our community and those who serve.
- I'm tired of lack of cooperation and regional planning between neighboring agencies to provide the best outcome for all citizens.
- I'm tired of big business and developers influencing our local elections.
- I'm tired of the attempts to tear apart our community by pitting citizens against one another.

I'm NOT tired of Serving Our Community to the Best of My Ability.

I am the only candidate to be born and raised in the Shasta Dam Community.

In my 16 years of service to our community I have:

- Written three successful grants for CVHS, including our new barn and Ag facility.
- Served as three time past president and board member of the Shasta Damboree.
- Established a car show that has raised thousands of dollars for CVHS scholarships.
- Served on the CVHS Ag Program Advisory Board for 15 years.
- Served on the Shasta County Regional Transportation Planning Agency two terms.
- Served on the Shasta Lake Finance & Audit Committee for a total of over 10 years.
- Participated in several regional workforce development/business expansion programs.
- Served on the Shasta Lake Parks & Recreation Commission.

As a Shasta Lake City Council member and two-term Mayor these are our accomplishments:

- 5 Million in grant funding to replace our aging water system, 1.5 million for sewer line replacement. Water Treatment plant upgrade & second inter-tie for water delivery.
- 14 million upgrade to the wastewater treatment plant at a cost of less than 7 million.
- Establishment of a Code Enforcement Officer to clean up blight.
- Establishment of a Dumpster Agreement to help people clean their property.
- Establishment of a First Time Home Buyers Program.
- Establishment of Electric Rebate Program to help citizens upgrade their homes and save money on their electric bills.
- Establishment of Lifeline Utility Rates for low income seniors.
- Pine Grove Avenue planned and completed, Median Street Project planned and completed, Cascade realignment & improvement planned.

If You're Tired of Politics too, and Believe in Helping Our Community Succeed, I Respectfully Ask for Your Vote on November 8th.

Among the many decorations Chaplain Westling was awarded for his ministry in combat were the Bronze Star V (for valor) Medal, the Purple Heart, the Navy Commendation V Medal and the Combat Action Ribbon.

His fiercest action was the five day Operation Buffalo 2nd on July 14, 1967. He also served on the USS Carl Vinson on Persian Gulf and diplomatic missions.

Capt. Westling retired after 26 years of service to take a parish in Redding for nine years. Afterward, he was a psychologist for Tehama County Health Agency for several years. He is also a published author.

Father Westling earned the graduate degree of Master of Divinity, Master of Arts in Pastoral Psychology, and Doctor of Ministry. He has been a Priest for 50 years, and has been a licensed marriage and family therapist since 1975.

He and his wife Marjorie have been married for 47 years and reside in Redding. They have three children.

The complete explanation for physical and psychological desire for foods is still a mystery; however, there are some questions we can answer. Test your knowledge about cravings and hunger.

What is the difference between a craving and hunger?

Unfortunately there's no hard and fast definition for either term.

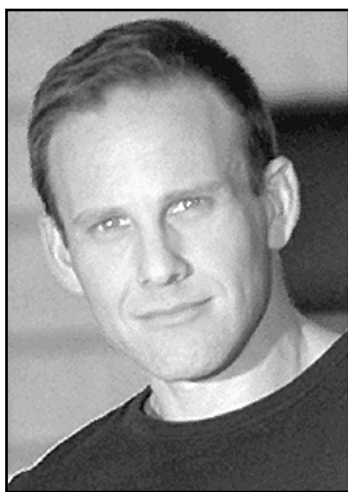

Physiological hunger generally comes on slowly and may be accompanied by physical symptoms like a growling stomach; you may also have stomach pains and feel unfocused or a little dizzy. Your body is telling you it needs fuel - you need to eat. These feelings disappear after eating and do not recur until several hours later.

But hunger is not completely physiologically driven; there are biological, sensory and cognitive components, says Richard Mattes, M.P.H., Ph.D., R.D., a professor of nutrition at Purdue University in West Lafayette, Ind.

A craving, on the other hand, pushes you to eat even when your body doesn't need more fuel.

If you are "hungry" within one to two hours of eating a good meal, you're probably experiencing a craving. The emotional or psychological desire to eat often has no relation to when you last ate and may not go away after eating. It is usually triggered by an event, a feeling or an emotion.

One red flag that can help you distinguish a craving from hunger is whether the instinct to eat is focused on a specific food.

"A craving is different from hunger in that it is more directed to a specific food, taste or texture," says Mattes. "A craving results in more radical behavior - the motivation to follow the sensation is stronger."

And the difference isn't necessarily just a question of psychological motivation, Mattes says.

"There are two schools of thought here - those who think cravings reflect biological signals and those who think they're more behaviorally driven. And there's no consensus."

Do we all have cravings?

Well, almost all of us. A report in the journal "Appetite" has stated that cravings for foods are extremely common, with 97 percent of women and 68 percent of men reporting episodes of food cravings.

True or False: If you have an appetite, it means you're hungry.

False. According to Mattes, "Appetite refers to food-seeking behavior that guides consumption."

It does not, however, predict how much you eat. Appetite and food intake do not correlate, in part, because the definition of appetite is so broad. It includes all the impulses and instincts that guide our relationship to food.

So depending on how much we crave, our level of hunger, our tendency to indulge or deny craving, and the amount of food it takes before reaching satiety, the amount we actually consume can differ greatly from person to person, even if the hunger level is similar.

"In fact, it is possible to be hungry without having an appetite, though this usually occurs only when someone is sick, or perhaps depressed or very stressed. The body sends signals that food is needed (hunger), but due to one of these states, food might be unappealing, and consequently there is no appetite," says Hollie Raynor, Ph.D., a staff psychologist at The Miriam Hospital's Weight Control & Diabetes Research Center in Providence, R.I.

True or False: Waiting 20 minutes before you go for seconds will help curb your appetite.

True, to some extent. You may have heard that it takes 20 minutes to recognize that you're full. While there's a certain amount of truth to the idea that our bodies aren't designed to recognize satiety instantaneously, different foods are processed differently, so there isn't a specific rule about the time we need to wait.

That said, however,

Raynor estimates that it takes "about 15 to 30 minutes to feel full. This is because satiation or fullness occurs due to many different components - receptors in the stomach, hormones in the gut and intestines - which all take time to occur" so that your brain finally gets the message that you've eaten, and you don't necessarily need to eat more.

True or False: The best advice for a craving is just to let it pass.

True and false. Many researchers believe that the life of a craving is about 20 minutes, meaning that if you can wait it out, it will pass.

"However, many times the craving passes only temporarily, and a reactivation of the craving occurs," says Martin Binks, Ph.D., psychologist and director of behavioral health at the Diet & Fitness Center at Duke University Medical Center.

He suggests waiting it out with some sort of distraction and actually targeting the source of the craving.

First, evaluate your hunger level by checking how long it's been since you've eaten. If it's at least four hours, you're probably experiencing hunger, not just a craving, and you should have something to eat.

If it's less time and you're not hungry, you're probably having an emotionally based craving. Try to figure out what you really need. Are you reaching for food because you're bored, lonely or anxious?

You need to tackle the particular issue behind the craving. For instance, if you're bored, come up with something to stimulate you that doesn't involve eating. Many experts also suggest drinking a glass of water to make sure that you're not just thirsty. Often times we mistake thirst for hunger.

Other experts suggest submitting to the food craving but keeping it under control.

"Although there is not much research on this question, if you really want something, you should eat it in controlled portions. This will help you overcome the craving and get it out of your system," says Mattes.

Don't worry too much about "giving in" to a craving, just make sure you're not overindulging. Measure out the snacks you typically crave beforehand; never eat directly out of the container or package.

True or False: Your body knows when it's nutrient deficient and therefore craves the nutrients you need.

False. While there is some debate over what causes cravings, most experts agree they aren't a biological necessity.

"It is not clear at this time if cravings are biological, cognitively driven, learned or a combination of the three," says Raynor. "However, food cravings for most people are not related to nutritional deficiencies."

As Mattes points out: "If we craved foods because we needed them, why would people ever have nutrient deficiencies?"

Cravings are based on custom. When people are stressed or depressed, for whatever reason, they gravitate toward foods that are associated with better times and happier sensations.

Pregnant women might crave chocolate, depressed people might crave ice cream. But if there were some biological need, if chocolate were really special, there would be universal cravings, not culturally specific cravings."

True or False: If we could take a pill that made us feel full, we would all lose weight and keep it off.

False. Think about it. How many times have you been completely full after a huge steak and then eaten dessert just because someone put it in front of you?

The scientific journal "Neuroscience & Biobehavioral Reviews" reported that the most important reason people stop eating is because they become tired of the food, not because they are full. In other words, if you're enjoying the taste, you'll keep on eating even if you're full.

"The more options and variety there are, the more a person will eat," says Raynor.

In fact, "One of the reasons pharmacological solutions have not been effective long term is the individual's disconnection from feelings of hunger and fullness. Just having a full stomach is not enough to stop eating; many people eat for emotional or other reasons," says Binks.

ARIES

Mar 21/Apr 20

Listen to naysayers this week, Aries, they're actually right about their advice. Put your energy into a project focused around a loved one and you'll feel rewarded.

TAURUS

Apr 21/May 21

A conflict at work only escalates this week, Taurus. It's hard to keep your cool, but doing so will help you come out looking like the better, wiser person.

GEMINI

May 22/June 21

An impromptu trip is just what you need to recharge, Gemini. Take Scorpio along for the ride and you'll have a grand adventure. Others will be jealous of the getaway.

CANCER

June 22/July 22

You're pouting and sulking has gotten you nowhere thus far, Cancer, so why continue with these antics? Others see right through the act. Change your behavior this week.

LEO

July 23/Aug 23

You're going to take a leap of faith this week, Leo. Don't worry, others won't let you down. The results will be a change in your outlook toward all things risky.

VIRGO

Aug 24/Sept 22

Mouthing off to higher-ups is no way to get what you want, Virgo. This approach never works, so why not try some finesse in areas concerning your work life?

LIBRA

Sept 23/Oct 23

A big move is in store for you, Libra. You have the financial means to make a change, and now's the time to pack up and get going. Expect some family resistance.

SCORPIO

Oct 24/Nov 22

You're swimming in dangerous waters, Scorpio, particularly when you start flirting with someone who could be trouble. Keep your sights closer to home and on safer territory.

SAGITTARIUS

Nov 23/Dec 21

A shock to your bank account leaves you dazed and confused, Sagittarius. Make up for the loss with some quick action, and you'll be surprised just how fast you get things in order.

CAPRICORN

Dec 22/Jan 20

You want to make a move, but the finances just aren't there yet, Capricorn. Better settle in and stash more cash away for the time being. It's time to put pressure on your partner.

AQUARIUS

Jan 21/Feb 18

A big responsibility at home leaves you feeling trapped. However, it's not wise to take chances and sow your wild oats. Speak to your partner about ways to liven things up.

PISCES

Feb 19/Mar 20

Others trust in your creativity for celebration ideas, this week, Pisces. Yet, you're just not up to the challenge this time. You'll rebound.

Meeting

The project, proposed by Mountain Gate Meadows LLC, calls for 1,500 to 2,000 homes as well as commercial uses, offices and open space. The proposed project lies west of Interstate 5 and stretches north and east of Grand Oaks Elementary School to south of the Wonderland Boulevard interchange.

It is the largest project Shasta Lake has considered since its incorporation, according to Carla Thompson, Shasta Lake's development services director.

The meeting is being held by Thompson and others, including representatives of Pacific Municipal Consultants, to give an overview of the project, answer questions and collect public comments on potential environmental impacts.

"My guess is traffic will be the major concern we'll hear," Thompson said. "The traffic consultant will be at the session and he'll give an overview of what he's looking at in his traffic analysis."

Thompson said the meeting's 4 p.m. starting time was selected to ensure representatives from various public agencies - some 50 agencies and organizations have been notified of the session - can attend. People arriving at 5 p.m. or later will have ample opportunity to ask questions and make comments. "We'll be there until 8 if need be," Thompson said.

Written comments are encouraged, Thompson said, and can be submitted through Nov. 21 by sending them to Carla Thompson, Development Services Director, P.O. Box 777 Shasta Lake CA 96019.

Maps and other information on the project are available at the Shasta Lake Development Services Department, Planning Division, 1650 Stanton Drive in Shasta Lake between 7 a.m. and 4 p.m. weekdays.

For additional information, contact Mark Teague, Pacific Municipal Consultants, at (530) 926-4059 during regular business hours.

FIRE LOG REPORT

*SLFPD personnel responded to a call on Pine Grove Avenue at Cascade Boulevard Oct. 24 at 5:29 p.m. regarding a two-vehicle traffic accident. The 58-year-old male driver of one of the vehicles was transported to Mercy Medical Center.

*SLFPD personnel also responded to 13 other medical assistance calls. Three additional calls were cancelled.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Questions actions of Northern Calif. Burn Foundation

Editor:
Request a Form 990 from the Northern California Burn Foundation of Red Bluff and you might end up in court - but they, however, are "above the law" when it comes to obtaining County permits.

NCBF and Sierra Pacific held a press conference in August 2002 to announce a "Year-around 'National Haven' for up to 250 burn victims, weary firefighters and traumatized emergency responders" in Shingletown on land to be donated by SPI. Then city of Shasta Lake Fire Chief Fred Wyckoff was there, along with lots of firefighters from Red Bluff and the CDF. Wyckoff was one of several who praised the project.

Those that lived near the site were not so sure about this "Foundation," its promises or its grandiose plans. We asked for their Form 990s, which a charity must provide, but the NCBF didn't cooperate so we had to dig the forms out of the California Attorney General's Office for 1999, 2000, 2001 and 2002. We found numerous irregularities and asked the AG to conduct an investigation. Nothing much got done but these forms clearly showed that the NCBF was "up-side-down" according to guidelines set down by charity watchdog groups: Less than 10 cents of every dollar collected is used to send kids to camp; the rest is consumed by administration and marketing.

NCBF also promised to follow procedures, file for permits and observe all the environmental rules. We had doubts just as you folks did about the rock quarry. Well, guess what? There's been a grading and erosion violation on the parcel since July 7 triggered because the NCBF bulldozed a road, dropped cinders on potential wetlands near Battle Creek and moved 10,000 cubic yards of soil, etc. all without permits from the County or CalTrans.

And yes we had to go to court recently because we tried to get NCBF's Form 990 for 2004. The NCBF's Brenda Ballantine claimed one of our residents had been violent toward her at various events and when requesting the latest form.

Fortunately, the charges of violence were quickly set aside. County Superior Court Judge Dennis E. Murray, saw the lawsuit as an attempt to intimidate our neighbor and our citizens group.

Every citizen has a right to see a charity's Form 990 - it's a public record. With it we can determine whether or not a charity is worthy. It's a way to see income and expense ratios and get vital other data.

The public deserves to know when a charity makes it difficult for the public to see this form. This and the filing of frivolous lawsuits and the failure to apply for proper permits are serious matters, which raise a huge red flag. Why the secrecy? Can they be trusted to build and operate this so-called retreat without trying to circumvent other environmental laws that would degrade not only Battle Creek, which runs through the proposed site, but also our rural residential neighborhood?" Our research shows that there is no need for demand for such a facility anyway, a claim the NCBF has never denied.

These disclosures, and other information at www.srio.org, explain why there has been stiff, organized resistance to this pipedream since day one. Donors beware.

Central Valley backup quarterback Corbin Hartman is finally tackled after running for a big gain during the third quarter of Friday's Northern Athletic League game in Yreka. The Falcons crushed the Miners 41-13 to improve their record to a perfect 9-0. As has happened numerous times this season, Central Valley's second team has played nearly as much as the first team as the Falcons jump out to a huge lead by the early third quarter.

Falcons 9-0 with 41-13 win over Miners

Will try for 10-0 Friday at home against Corning in final regular season game

Yreka marched down the field on their first possession Friday night and scored on a draw as running back Steven Embury raced into the end zone to give the Miners a brief 6-0 lead on the Central Valley Falcons.

After that, it was all C.V., as the undefeated Falcons kept their perfect record intact with a 41-13 victory over the host Miners on a rainy night in Yreka.

C.V. runner takes 1st in varsity boys division

Garrett Syvertson placed first in the varsity boys division and Curtis Walbridge took second in the J.V. boys division in a Northern Athletic League cross country meet last week at Shasta College.

Syvertson won the varsity boys race in a time of 16 minutes, 11 seconds on the 2.7 mile course. Teammate John Cadigan was third (17:07) followed by David Tiedgen in eighth (18:36), Jimmy Galvan in ninth (19:03) and Robert Davis in 12th (21:11).

Team scores were C.V. 33 and Las Plumas 24. The Falcons finished league with a 1-4 record.

In the J.V. boys division, Walbridge, a sophomore, blazed through the 1.83 mile course in 10:20. The Falcons continued their tough sophomore threesome as Mike Hartman placed third (10:36) and Joey Knighten fourth (10:39).

Next for C.V. was Mitchell Griggs in 12th (11:33), followed by Eric Rainey in 13th (12:11) and Brice Steinbach in 14th (14:11).

The Falcons scored 32 to Las Plumas's 27. Central Valley finished league with a record of 2-3.

In the varsity girls division, the Falcons were paced by Katie Gardner who ran the 2.7 mile course in 22:04. She was followed by teammate Rachel Farley (23:51) and Christy Peterson (27:19).

Kaylah Dunivin paced C.V. in the J.V. girls division, finishing the 1.83 mile course in 14:01. She was followed by freshman teammate Krystal Swift (15:23).

"I'm glad we got to play in the wet weather," Falcons head coach Matt Hunsaker said. "It gave us some experience playing in that kind of weather."

The Falcons may have similar weather for this Friday's final regular season game when they host Corning.

Against Yreka, after the Miners scored their TD, the Falcons responded immediately. On their first play from scrimmage, Nick Leedy took the handoff from quarterback Scott Armstead and raced down the field 55 yards for a touchdown, shaking off a couple of tackles in the process.

The Falcons scored three more times in the first half on a 29-yard run by Nate Dean, a five-yard run by Drew Forrister and a 26-yard run by Armstead, to take a 27-6 halftime lead.

Meanwhile on defense, C.V.'s Oscar Deavila intercepted two Kyson Culp passes and Mitch Ryan was in on numerous tackles as the Miners offense, which looked good on their first drive, was suddenly shut down by the Falcons, Central Valley added two more scores in the third quarter on a five-yard run by Dean and a four-yard run by Ryan.

As they've done so many times this season, the Falcons had pretty much put the game out of reach by the early third quarter and the second team was called in to finish the job.

Central Valley will try to make it 10-0 on Friday when they host the Corning Cardinals (2-2 in the NAL, 6-3 overall).

After losing to Enterprise 35-0 in the opening game of the season, the Cardinals won six games in a row before losing their last two games, getting edged by Anderson 24-21 and then throttled by West Val-

CVHS lady spikers beat L.P. in 3, fall to W.V. in 3

It was two quick matches for Central Valley High School's varsity volleyball team last week as the played both the first place team and last place team in the Northern Athletic League.

The Falcons lost to NAL power West Valley in three games on Oct. 25. The visiting Eagles won 25-15, 25-15, 25-16.

"I thought we played well defensively against them," C.V. coach Karin Fitzhugh said.

On Thursday, Central Valley traveled to Las Plumas to face the Thunderbirds. The Falcons won in three games, 25-19, 25-17, 25-13.

"Everybody on the team had more kills than errors, so that was very good," Fitzhugh said.

Leaders in kills for C.V. were Kristin Barber and Kelli Barday with eight. Cara Bourne added five, Amanda Brickey four, Lindsey Kelly three and Ciera Stratton two.

The Falcons, 4-4 in league and 16-15-3 overall, were scheduled to host Yreka (3-5, 15-7-2) last night before closing out the regular season on Thursday in Corning (5-3, 20-12).

In other action, C.V.'s junior varsity team lost both matches while the frosh team lost to West Valley but beat Las Plumas.

Honoring Those Who Served

Veterans Memorials

Is there a memorial near where you live? Most towns have at least one.

People build memorials to remember loved ones, or to honor those who have given special service to their country or community. A memorial is an honor meant to last for years.

It may be in the form of a statue, a fountain, a plaque, a marker, a stained-glass window or even a building.

To celebrate Veterans Day, Nov. 11, The Mini Page gives a sampling of memorials honoring those who have served in the military.

War memorials

Some of the best-known memorials honor all who served in a certain war.

The Korean War Veterans Memorial is an unusual one, with figures of soldiers spread out as if they were on patrol. The U.S. fought in the Korean War from 1950 to 1953. This memorial is in Washington, D.C.

The Vietnam Veterans Memorial in Washington, D.C., was designed as a place of healing, to honor those who served in this war and to remember those who died or are missing. The main part of the memorial is made of two black granite panels on which are written nearly 60,000 names of servicemen and -women killed or missing. The U.S. fought in that war from 1965 to 1973.

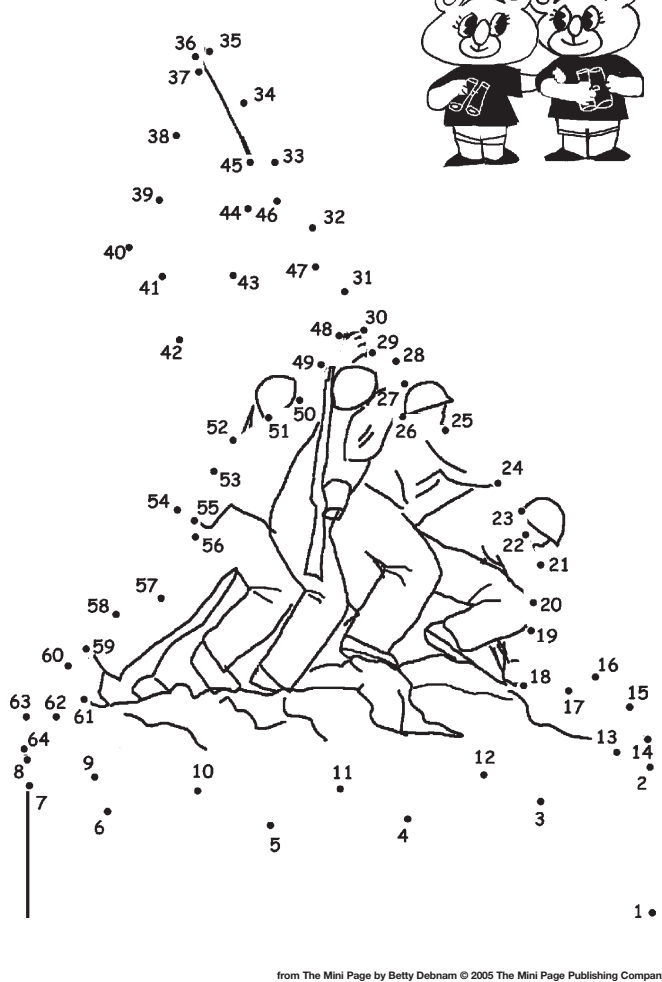

This memorial honors veterans of the Spanish-American War, which began in 1898 and lasted less than a year. It is at Los Angeles National Cemetery.

"The Doughboy" honors the soldiers of World War I. "Doughboy" is an old nickname for soldiers, probably because of their round dough-like uniform buttons. This stained-glass window memorial is at the Thrasher Memorial United Methodist Church in Vinton, Va.

Rookie Cookie's Recipe Cranberry-Apple Bake

You'll need:

- 3 cups apples, peeled and cut in small pieces
- 2 cups raw cranberries
- 3/4 cup sugar
- 1 cup quick-cooking oatmeal, uncooked
- 3/4 cup brown sugar
- 1 stick butter

What to do:

1. Combine the apples, cranberries and sugar.
 2. Pour into a buttered 9-by-12-inch casserole dish.
 3. In a medium bowl, combine oatmeal, brown sugar and butter.
 4. With clean hands, sprinkle oatmeal mixture over fruit mixture.
 5. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven for about 35 minutes.
- Makes 8 servings.

You will need an adult's help with this recipe.

Gus Goodsport's Report Supersport: Marvin Harrison

Height: 6-0 Birthdate: 8-25-72
Weight: 175 Hometown: Philadelphia
Peyton Manning drops back, surveys the field, then rifles a pass to sure-handed receiver Marvin Harrison. Indianapolis Colts fans have seen that scenario hundreds of times. Harrison is Manning's favorite target, and for good reason. He gets open. He catches the ball. He scores touchdowns.

The former Syracuse University player has more than 865 career receptions, the most in Colts history. He has been selected for the Pro Bowl six years in a row.

Off the field, Marvin has helped raise money to support several charities, especially those that benefit children. He donates home-game tickets to the Police Athletic League as well. In short, Harrison is an All-Pro receiver who likes to give.

Meet Shia LaBeouf

Shia LaBeouf plays the young golfer Francis Ouimet (pronounced "we-met") in the movie "The Greatest Game Ever Played." Shia started out as a stand-up comedian in coffee shops around his neighborhood. He wanted to become an actor when a friend of his played a part on a TV show. He and his mother decided to find him an agent. Once he did, Shia began auditioning for roles.

Some readers might know him as Louis Stevens on the Disney channel series "Even Stevens." He won an Emmy award for this character.

Shia, 19, grew up as an only child in Los Angeles. He is named after his grandfather, also a comedian. He enjoys playing the drums. He attended a music school in Los Angeles. He and his best friend started a hip-hop record label and a film production company. Shia lives in Los Angeles with his mother.

MIGHTY FUNNY'S Mini Jokes

All the following jokes have something in common. Can you guess the common theme or category?

- Pete: Why are owls invited to so many parties?
Paula: Because they are a hoot to have around!
- Patty: What type of vacuum do owls like to use?
Piper: A "hooover"!
- Peggy: What do you call it when a group of owls play their banjos and guitars?

More About Veterans Memorials

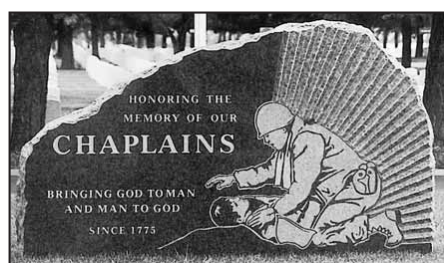

The National World War II Memorial honors all who fought and served and supported this war effort. In World War II, fought between 1939 to 1945, more people were killed and more lives were disrupted than in any other war in history. This memorial is in Washington, D.C.

Many memorials honor veterans and others who served and sacrificed in special ways.

The Nurses' Memorial honors the many nurses who served in our country's conflicts. It is at Arlington National Cemetery in Arlington, Va.

This memorial honors the chaplains who risked their lives to serve the troops. It is at Fort Snelling National Cemetery in Minneapolis, and was put up in 2004.

Many memorials honor groups of people who risked their lives for their country in unusual conflicts.

The Polar Bear Memorial honors the troops sent to Russia in 1918, at the end of World War I. They called themselves Polar Bears because the Russian winters were so cold. This is at White Chapel Memorial Cemetery in Troy, Mich.

The Congressional Medal of Honor Memorial in Indianapolis is made of glass panels etched with the names of more than 3,000 people who have received this medal. It is the highest U.S. military award, granted for especially brave acts.

Many newer memorials are smaller than the big memorials of the past. Although smaller, these memorials are often beautifully carved. This memorial is at Ohio Western Reserve National Cemetery in Rittman, Ohio.

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF JUNE VIRGINIA CURCEK Case Number 24704

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of JUNE VIRGINIA CURCEK, VIRGINIA JUNE CURCEK, JUNE CURCEK A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by VAL HOWSER in the Superior Court of California, County of SHASTA. THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that Val Howser be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests the decedent's will and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. The will and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held on November 7, 2005, 1:30 p.m., Probate Dept., Juvenile Justice Center, 2680 Radio Lane, Redding, CA 96001.

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the deceased, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within four months from the date of first issuance of letters as provided in Probate Code section 9100. The time for filing claims will not expire before four months from the hearing date noticed above. YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

The Shasta County Department of Resource Management, Environmental Health Division, has received and reviewed a Risk Management Plan (RMP) submitted by Burney Forest Power for their facility located at 35586-C, Hwy 299 East, Burney, California. The RMP describes programs and controls designed to prevent accidental releases of a regulated substance. This RMP will be available for public review and comment for 45 days at 1855 Placer St., Suite 201, in Redding, California. Published Nov. 2, 2005

Cancellation of Public Notice & Comment Period
 This public notice cancels the opportunity to comment on 4 types of special use proposals specified in this newspaper of record on October 5, 2005. While these types of uses in the past did not require a 30 day comment period, it was initiated based on the Forest Service understanding of a July 2, 2005 order issued by the U. S. District Court for the Eastern District of California in Case No. CIV F-03-6386JKS. In an order issued on October 19, 2005 the Court clarified not all categorical exclusions require the 30 day notice period. This clarification was reiterated in an October 20, 2005 letter issued by the Chief of the Forest Service which stated: "The district court expressly indicated that permits for short-term special uses, such as state-licensed outfitters and guides or gathering forest products for personal use, need not be subject to notice, comment, and appeal." Therefore, this 30 day notice and comment period for categorically excluded projects, that upon clarification, are no longer addressed by this court order was cancelled as of October 19, 2005. Implementation of these projects has begun. Published Nov. 2, 2005
